Friendship is an essential part of our lives, so it's <sup>10</sup> unsurprising that the topic involves many discussions, some dating back <sup>20</sup> to ancient times. Such as a <sup>30</sup> statement made by Aristotle, "A friend to all is a friend to none"

To conclude, I believe we have to take a <sup>150</sup> look <sup>160</sup> how we view friendship in modern world and where it means to be
